Dear Mr. Gracile,

Distant Roads is a television program which embraces the spirit of adventure, discovery and freedom of RV ownership. Viewers share in the personal experiences of the show's hosts as they travel through the featured regions. They reveal in depth the cultural and historical perspectives of the region while pointing out the geography, geology and other educational details of the various destinations. The program's health segments encourage viewers to exercise and stay healthy as they travel to educational and entertainment venues. This empowers audiences of all ages to pursue their dreams to completion through the spirit of adventure, discovery and freedom that our society encourages.

Each segment of Distant Roads delivers an educational and informational message that supports current social, intellectual and emotional aspects of children ages 13 and up. Attributes and advice emphasized by the hosts and their guests instill a grounded balance of priorities, commitment, and perseverance children can apply to their lives.

Based on my extensive experience as an educator and principal in public education, it is my sincere opinion that the series Distant Roads complies with the FCC Children's Television Rules by furthering the educational and informational needs of children 13 years of age and up.

Sincerely,

Barbara J. Pierce, MA Ed.
